THE VOICE OF REPUBLICANISM—WILL THE PRESIDENT HEED IT?

No more direct test of the feeling of the Republican voters of the country with reference to the surrender policy of the Administration, could well have been made, than that furnished by the elections occurring simultaneously in Ohio and Iowa on Tuesday. The only deviation from an impartial test was in the [illegible] of the Administration in the fact that Ohio is the President's own State and the whole power of the Administration has been exerted there to [illegible] an indorsement of the policy [illegible] [illegible]. The Ohio State Convention [illegible] indorsement resolutions while that of Iowa emphatically refused to approve the policy but went into the canvass with a bold and uncompromising platform of Republican Principles. From the outset the [illegible] has been the approval or rebuke of the [illegible] of the Administration in [illegible] the Republicans of the South [illegible] the control of [illegible] [illegible] every [illegible] efforts have been made to [illegible] upon [illegible] voters the importance of [illegible] the Administration [illegible] with an unprecedented distribution of Federal patronage throughout Ohio, the effort to carry that State for the policy have been followed up by sending a Cabinet officer to stump the State for the Administration and the President and his Cabinet have made a special tour through Ohio with a series of public demonstrations calculated to excite a favorable influence upon the [illegible]. Purses have been [illegible] [illegible] official orders evaded to get Ohio voters home from Washington and to raise [illegible] for the canvass and no exercise of Administration influence has been neglected that it was thought would aid in securing the President's State. On the other hand the Iowa Republicans have had [illegible] and no comfort from Washington but have been constantly assailed and reviled by the Administration press.

The case was submitted to the juries of Republican voters on Tuesday and the verdict has been rendered with an emphasis not to be misunderstood. Ohio which for twenty three years has [illegible] times low[illegible] the Republican flag has gone down under the load of the policy so disastrously that the Democrats are claiming 15 000 [illegible] while the disaster is intensified by the loss of the Legislature which will elect the successor of a United States Senator [illegible] certificates after the 4th of March [illegible] of the President's State [illegible] the first time since the birth of the Republican Party will be represented in the National Congress by two Democratic Senators.

The [illegible] of Iowa is equally emphatic [illegible] Republican [illegible] [illegible] glorious [illegible] to the [illegible] [illegible] fighting for sound [illegible] Republican [illegible] our friends have won a victory [illegible] by the [illegible] record of the [illegible]. The [illegible] estimate the Republican majority as high as 40,000, with a decisive [illegible] of the Legislature that is to choose [illegible] to Senator Allison in 1879.

The returns really need no comment. They speak for themselves. There can be no [illegible] the real significance out of [illegible] for the Ohio despatches coming through sources sympathetic with the Administration are compelled to admit the [illegible] in Republican strongholds and that the Southern policy of the Administration is responsible for the falling off in the Republican vote.

The question now is whether the President will recognize the voice of the party which elected him or in spite of this powerful protest go on with a policy that has wiped out Republicanism in the South [illegible] great State over to Democratic control and promises to hand the National Government over to the rule of the men who sought to destroy it and build up Human Slavery on its ruins. If the President has not [illegible] through the cajolery of those he has gathered around him he will take heed of the lessons of the hour.

On the day of the Ohio election the New York [illegible] published a special from Columbus saying:

The fact is that the Administration of President Hayes has brought back to the Republican party a class of men known as Independents, those who supported Mr Greeley for the Presidency. The party is stronger and more united than it was one year ago. The information received at Republican headquarters is of such a character as to justify the committee in claiming the State by at least 5 000 majority, while the others think 10,000 will be given for the State ticket, with a fair working majority in both branches of the Legislature.

From the returns it would appear that the investment in those Greeley Republicans and Independents was not an immense success. By and by perhaps it will dawn upon the minds of certain people that the rank and file of earnest, uncompromising Republicans are of some importance in political campaigns.

The emotional Gov Van Zandt of Rhode Island on his return from that Southern tour made some remarks to a friend which induced the latter to report that Van Zandt had become sick of the "policy." The Boston Traveller printed this report, whereat the great Van Zandt became very nervous and at once flung himself upon the bosom of a Boston Herald correspondent and begged him to contradict the statement. The reporter accordingly quotes Van Zandt as declaring that "the President's policy is irresistible and, like Niagara, will sweep everything before it." The cataract seems to have got started wrong end to in the President's State of Ohio and has "irresistibly swept" the State out of Republican control.

One of the most striking exhibitions of generosity in modern politics is the Administration's unloading of all responsibility for changes in New York offices upon the shoulders of Mr. Evarts.—N. Y. Tribune.

PITIABLE!

Mr. Lynch's new "policy organ" in Washington is making rapid progress. It has only issued six numbers, and already it has argued that the war for the Union was nothing more than a mutual effort of Northerners and Southerners to destroy each other and in its latest issue it fairly takes the palm for dough-face slobbering over the old plantation masters. Referring to the defeat of the Rebels it says; "Something has been lost to the whole "Country in this loss of Southern prestige," and gushingly declares "The Southern statesmen were honorable and high minded gentlemen. They scorned "lying, stealing and bribery." This refers to the "honorable and high minded statesmen" who, with an oath of fidelity on their lips conspired in their seats in the National Congress to overthrow the Government of the United States. It is applied to such "honorable and high minded gentlemen" as Floyd who as a Cabinet officer of the United States treasonably used his authority as Secretary of war to remove the arms and munitions of the Government beyond its control and put them in the hands of Southern Rebels, who resigned because the Executive declined to surrender the United States forts in Charleston harbor to the possession of Rebels, who was indicted for gigantic fraudulent connection with Indian Trust Fund but escaped capture and trial solely because, as Horace Greeley recorded it, "he was by that time far from Washington absorbed in the work of leading Virginia into the toils of treason." It is applied to such "honorable and high minded statesmen" as Secretary Jacob Thompson of the Interior Department, of whom Greeley says "having left his post to visit North Carolina in the character of a secession commissioner from Mississippi a heavy defalcation [the abstraction of Trust Fund bonds aggregating $870 000] was discovered in his Department." It applies to such "honorable and high minded statesmen" as Secretary Howell Cobb of the Treasury Department, of whom the famous Liberal Republican candidate has recorded in history that on "December 10 [illegible] Howell Cobb, [illegible] in the counsels of the secessionists, resigned the control of the Treasury where of the bankrupt and hopeless condition furnished [illegible] though not the reason, for his retirement." It applies to the "honorable and high minded" Brooks who vindicated Southern "chivalry" by beating Charles Sumner over the head with a bludgeon in the Senate Chamber of the Nation, and it includes the whole list of bullying, earoning [illegible] slave drivers who cracked their whips over the North until the people would no longer stand it and then from their seats in Congress organized the seizure of Government property throughout the South and inaugurated a bloody treason to the war. And the new organ of the National Administration bewails the overthrow of the gideon as a "loss of prestige to the whole country!" Faugh! Such cringing servility smells rank in this free Northern atmosphere.

But the new organ in its zeal to welcome back the old plantation masters to the control of the Government goes involved in its rhetoric and expounds the meaning of "conciliation" in this remarkable manner:

We gained so complete a victory that we put [illegible] so far out of the possibility of achievement that we have no need to [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] to its overthrow, [illegible].

We doubt if the most case hardened office-dirt-eater could succeed in swallowing itself more completely in the sandwich of mud [illegible] this torture is submitted to plain English that declares that "we may without tarnishing our own loyalty concede [illegible] for their bravery and fidelity to a cause against which not only we, [illegible] the whole tendencies of civilization rose [illegible]." That is the kind of stuff that "policy" [illegible] men to write and the kind of doctrine which policy compels them to [illegible]. It is so absolutely and so far beneath the contempt of all intelligent and [illegible] patriotic people, that we can only characterize it as Pitiable.

BEGINNING TO SEE IT!

From the Boston [illegible] Journal.

Mr. Lynch who is stumping Ohio for the Democratic candidate, exults over the suppression of the Republican party in the South. He says:

In the Southern States it has vanished entirely and we have already a solid South. The thirty five votes gained by the abolition of slavery thus far mainly controlled by carpet baggers and freedmen, have [illegible] and happily turned over to the Democratic party."

And how have they been turned over to the Democratic party? By fraud, by intimidation, by violence, not stopping short of murder. These are the instrumentalities by which a Democratic majority has been secured in a controlling majority in the Southern States and have rendered to the party a "solid South," and by its alliance with the disreputable districts of New York and their overflow into Connecticut and New Jersey, it hopes to control the country in the interest of the principles of the rebellion. If not in its direct purposes. The pledges on which the Southern States were readmitted to their forfeited rights in the Union have been violated. The constitutions which they adopted as the conditions of their admission have been amended, and the legislation which formed a part of the conditions has been repealed or ignored. The emancipated race is practically denied the right of suffrage. Counties in which they have a great majority return elective officers against their wishes and hostile to their rights. The party that enjoys the representation based on their numbers, uses it to defeat their rights and for their oppression. There never was before such an example of bad political faith. But it may be carried too far. The North is forbearing, but it arouses under a sense of injustice and wrong and the continuance of this policy may excite it to such indignation that shall overcome the spirit of the rebellion in the South and the copperhead sympathy in its own limits, and a solid North may meet a solid South.

The Charleston, S. C. News says: "If we wish our children to believe as we believe, to know as we know, that the South fought for principle and right, and not for expediency and gain, we must use Southern books in our schools."—Boston Journal.

Yet the Journal thinks the South is thoroughly "conciliated" and loyal. We exhibited some specimens of the sort of instruction given in "Southern books" by the extracts from a "School History" which we printed last fall. It was a systematic falsification of history and glorification of the Lost Cause.

If Nast were at his old post in the Harper establishment now we might look for a cartoon showing the end of the tail of the Republican Elephant disappearing amid the splinters of an indorsement platform through which the great animal has gone crashing head-foremost into the "policy pit-fall" in Ohio. Instead of Nast, however, we shall have a classic flute solo by Mr. Curtis, introducing John Brown's Chorus and Dixie fingered with one hand.

THAT P. J. M.

"The journals which exist principally at the present time to assail Secretary Schurz are very furious because he has not put a temporary roof over the Interior buildings where the fire occurred ten days ago. The whole care of the public buildings is intrusted to another official. The Don Quixote of the BANGOR WHIG discharges something like a column at Mr. Schurz for neglecting to make repairs or remove the records.—Boston Journal [illegible]

It would be impolite for us to suggest that the aforesaid P. J. M. is an ass, but while we withhold the term we can find no other so appropriate. We innocently supposed that the Secretary of the Interior possessed the same authority ten days ago to order the removal of valuable books paper and material to a place of shelter, that he actually exercised after the floods had poured into the roofless building and caused damage estimated by all the despatches to be equal to, if not greater than that sustained by the fire. Still we are willing to admit that Schurz exhibits quite as much capacity for an executive position as does the P. J. M. for telling the truth or exhibiting common sense.

Now let him wage his beard at that hitherto extravagant eulogist of Schurz the Boston Globe, which publishes the following account of the matter:

Secretary Schurz's Negligence Turns out Disastrous

[Special Dispatch to the Boston Globe.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. October [illegible]. The [illegible], [illegible] Secretary Schurz in using measures to temporarily cover the west and north wing of the Patent Office has proven more disastrous to the valuable records of the Department than the late fire. If [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] by which time the temporary roofs could have been erected, which would have prevented the deluging of the lower stories of the building. It is estimated that [illegible] will be required to repair the damage of yesterday.

Then he can take in hand the Herald's special correspondent, who testifies to the condition of Mr. Schurz Department two days after the fire, as follows:

The damage [illegible] and furniture on the main floor of the Interior Department, and the general disarrangement of everything [illegible] in consequence of the [illegible] from yesterday's storm is greater than from the fire.

If we are a "Don Quixote," we think the P. J. M. will conclude that we have effectually attended to the [illegible] at least one windmill.

THAT BUGABOO.

Notwithstanding the newspaper attempts to ridicule the warning in Mr. Blaine's Woodstock speech the Mexican "bugaboo" seems to keep up a lively stir in the columns of the [illegible] papers. Here are two sample paragraphs:

In 1846 our war with Mexico was inaugurated without direct authority of Congress, which, however, justified the act afterward, and a second war with that country may be commenced before Congress has an opportunity to prevent it.—Philadelphia Press.

The mountains south of the Rio Grande would make a border line as defensible as the Turks have found the Balkans to be. General Scott after his conquest of Mexico, wished to plant the defenses of the Southern border along those mountains, but the politicians interfered and now it is possible that [illegible] work of the Mexican war will have to be done over again.—Boston Herald.

"CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLES." The New York World's [illegible] announced that the Khedive of Egypt has signified his willingness to present to the city of New York, upon proper application, the twin "Needle" [illegible] that now floating toward England. This shaft stands upon the seashore, a monolith of the granite of Syene seventy feet in height and is a familiar landmark to all travellers who have visited Alexandria. The hieroglyphics on its seaward face have been partly effaced by the action of the salt wind and spray during more than 1,800 year and it has also so much worn and mutilated, that it is likely to be prostrated by [illegible] cyclone at some future day. It is of the same age as the English obelisk—[illegible] of [illegible] III, which gives it an antiquity of 3 400 years. The English contractors, who are now conveying the latter to London, are said to have offered to transport the Khedive's gift to New York city, and to erect it in any location which may be chosen for the sum of $100 000, taking upon themselves the whole risk of the enterprise. Charles Storrs, of New York offers to subscribe $2,000 and a New York engineer offers to bring the obelisk across the ocean for $[illegible] and to subscribe $5 000.

As the unimportant results of the Presidential campaign were not expected in this off year, we hardly understand why our friends of the Lewiston Journal were so particular to state that Iowa had gone Republican "by a diminished majority," and to quote in contrast with the present returns the heavy figures of last year. In referring to Ohio it calls special attention to the small plurality last year and the election of Allen in 1873 but does not mention that Iowa's majority in 1873 was but 22 665. We hope our friends, in their zeal for the new policy, have not endeavored to belittle the Republican triumph in Iowa because in that case the later despatches announcing a Republican majority of about 40 000 would be painful news for them.

THE "ORDER" OFFICIALLY DEFINED. There have been so many attempts by the "policy" organs to interpret the civil service "order" as not infringing the rights of Federal officials to participate like other citizens in political affairs, that we are glad to find an authoritative expounding of the "order." The October number of the Official Postal Guide on page 60, paragraph No. 79 of Rulings of the Post Office Department, quotes the order and adds:

"In accordance with the foregoing order no postmaster should be a member of or take any part in a political convention, committee or caucus."

How sad our Democratic Postmaster-General must feel to read in the despatch from Cleveland that "the civil service reform order suppressed about fifteen hundred active, working, Republicans in Ohio"!

The States which have thus far seceded from the Union are, according to the Boston Herald, Maine, Iowa and New York.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Maine and Iowa are "stalwartly" erect in the Union Republican line and New York is making good promise to stand with them, but where, oh where, has the "President's own State" gone politically?

The Mississippi Pilot, Republican, has died a natural death, the party having vanished in that State.—Ex.

What a commentary on the condition of affairs in a State of the American Union in which it is well known there is a large Republican majority of legal voters.

With the greatest complacency the Columbus, Georgia, Enquirer remarks:

"The Republican party is dead and buried in this State, as well as the entire South. There is not the possibility of a hope of its resurrection. No fears need be apprehended on that score. It is not possible for a radical to be elected in Georgia.

What a cheerful feature it would have added to that policy mass meeting in Coop[illegible]

[illegible] Institute Wednesday evening to have had George William Curtis read the election bulletins from Iowa and Ohio from the platform.

The Bread Winners

ALBANY, Oct 10 The Bread Winners League held a convention here to-day, Charles H Truax chairman. The platform adopted was reaffirming the Indianapolis platform of 1876 and that of the Bread Winners League of May, recommending the abolishment of the contract system at the State Prison, reduction of the number of public officers and of their salaries and modified excise law; opposing further reduction of the Regular Army, demanding issue by the National Government of legal tenders to the State without interest, to be expended in public works for the purpose of giving employment to working men approving Hayes' civil service and Southern Policies

The following ticket was nominated Secretary of State, John J Junio of Onondaga, Comptroller, F P Olcott, Attorney General, Elmore Sharpe of Onondaga Treasurer, Julius Kern of New York, State Engineer, Horatio Seymour, Jr. It is understood the Republicans will take Julius Kern for Treasurer on their ticket and the Bread Winners will take Greenville Tremaine for Attorney-General, thus perfecting the combination contemplated by the Republicans and those opposed to Tammany Hall in New York.

From Cincinnati—Bishop's Majority Placed at 15,000

NEW YORK Oct 10 A Cincinnati [illegible] to the Times says Bishop's majority [illegible] Working [illegible] friends decided the [illegible] wards in Cincinnati [illegible] vote for the [illegible] Republican ticket [illegible] The German working [illegible] deserted in a body.

The Legislature—Pendleton's Friends Jubilant

[illegible] defection gave Hamilton county to the Democracy and decided the complexion of the Legislature. The Legislature being Democratic, means the election of Pendleton to the Senate. His friends re[illegible] jubilant. Politicians interpret the defeat [illegible] rebuke to Hayes. The election was [illegible] most quiet and orderly held for years. The hardest workers were the Labor and Greenback men

From Cleveland—The Effect of the Policies

A Cleveland despatch to the Times says [illegible] returns show a serious defection in Republican strongholds. The fact is that the strong Republican counties of Northern Ohio are [illegible] consequence of the South[illegible] policy of the administration and the [illegible] order has suppressed [illegible] working Republicans throughout the State. All returns indicate that the Democrats carried the State by 15 000 majority

From Columbus—A Republican Concession

A Columbus special to the Tribune dated [illegible] o'clock says Democratic gains are growing with every return and 20,000 majority is conceded by the Republicans. The Democrats claim 30 000 on Bishop, but the balance of the ticket will fall below this figure by several thousand. President Hayes' Southern policy is said to be the [illegible] reverse on the Western [illegible] the policy of the Republicans [illegible] to stay [illegible] Both parties claim the Legislature but it is probably Democratic by a small majority on both branches. The Workingmen developed [illegible]

The N. Y. World's Claim

A Columbus special to the World says the Ohio Legislature will be Democratic in both branches by a majority of 30 on joint ballot

Concessions and Claims

CINCINNATI Oct 10 The Gazette [illegible] concedes both branches of the Legislature to the Democrats and [illegible] Bishop's majority [illegible] the State [illegible] 20 000. The [illegible] claims a majority [illegible] Workingmen claim their ticket will foot up 11 000 votes

A National County Ticket Elected

[illegible] Oct 10 It is now conceded [illegible] the Nationals have elected [illegible] entire ticket in [illegible] county [illegible] ranging from 300 to 800. In the [illegible] their majority is over 1000

Democratic Legislative Claim

COLUMBUS Oct 10 There is scarcely any excitement to learn the final figure of yesterday's election. Both sides [illegible] concede [illegible] Bishop's majority [illegible] between 15 000 and 20 000. The Democratic committee claim the Democrats have [illegible] 10 on joint ballot [illegible] Republican committee do not dispute the claim

Cuyahoga County Returns

CLEVELAND Oct 10 Returns from this county indicate that the Democrats have elected one Senator and one Representative [illegible] the Attorney and possibly the Treasurer. The balance of the Republican ticket is elected by a majority of 400 to 300. The probable vote for Governor is as follows West 11 315, Bishop 10 410; [illegible] Workingmen's 1751; Johnston; Greenback 116

The Committees' Figures

COLUMBUS Oct 10 The Democratic State Committee have received what they call official returns from just one half the counties of the State. They show a Democratic gain over the vote of last year of [illegible] Taking this as a basis they claim that Bishop's majority cannot fall below 25 000 and think a full official count will give him 28 000 or 30 000 majority. The Republican Committee concede Bishop's election by 25 000

The Democratic committee's figures on the General Assembly is as follows. In the House the Democrats will have 67 members, Republicans [illegible] and [illegible] Nationals or Workingmen [illegible] Democratic majority 28. In the Senate the Democrats will have [illegible] Republicans 10. Democratic majority 10. This will give the Democrats [illegible] majority on joint ballot

IOWA

Still Staunch and True—The State Republican Against all Odds

DUBUQUE Oct 10 Headquarters Republican State Central Committee. Very meagre returns are received. The vote was light owing to the heavy rain prevailing throughout the State. Reports indicate the election of the Republican State ticket by about 30 000 majority over the Democratic ticket. Gear, Republican, for Governor, was considerably scratched by Temperance men, and will run at least 5000 behind rest of ticket. The Greenback State ticket received 15 000 to 20 000 votes and the Temperance ticket 5000. The Republicans will have about 30 majority in the Senate and 35 or 40 in the House.

Twenty five Thousand Majority—Sixty-five on Joint Ballot.

CHICAGO Oct 10 The best estimates from Iowa place the State majority at 25,-000, with a majority on joint ballot approximating 65

Reports from counties—About Forty Republican Majority in the Legislature—Gear's Majority 40,000

DES MOINES Oct. 10 The Reports to the State Register indicate that Gear, Republican for Governor will have a majority over Irish Democrat, of 40,000 and a little more than that over Stubbs Greenbacker. The Republican majority in the Legislature will be 35 or 40. In Mills county John Y Stone Republican for Representative, and generally looked upon for the next Speaker of the house is elected by eighty majority after a hard fight. In Polk county the Republicans elect the whole ticket, except Treasurer, which is still in doubt. Reports from Dallas county indicate that the whole Greenback county ticket is elected except the Representative Russell. Returns from all parts of the State show unexpected strength for the Greenbackers and the leading men of that party are claiming now that their candidate for Governor has more votes than the Democratic candidate.

NEW YORK Oct 10 A special from Fort Benton says: One of the first days Joseph came into Miles camp and offered to surrender [illegible] of soldiers arms [illegible] While he was retained as a prisoner Miles sent Lieut Jerome of the [illegible] Cavalry to the Indian camp to examine [illegible] condition. The Indians seized Jerome as a hostage and held him over one day and night. The Mark Tapley of the White House—Breaking the Fall in Ohio

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 Several intimate friends of President Hayes, say he was not surprised at the result of the Ohio election, but that it was anticipated by him on the ground that the votes of the State for several years have been becoming more friendly to the doctrine of inflation of the currency as presented by leading members of the Democratic party, seeming to believe that with such inflation their material interests would be greatly enhanced. SKATING RINK: Mr. Weston, Secretary of the Bangor Band, informs us that the City Government have granted the Band the use of Davenport Square below the Bangor House for the purpose of building a skating rink. They propose to plow up the ground and remove some of the earth in the centre in order to make a pond, and then overflow the land; they also contemplate putting up a building about 100x200 feet, with seats conveniently arranged for spectators. The full band will be in attendance at the rink two or three times a week and furnish some of their best music. They are in hopes to have everything in readiness for a grand opening on Thanksgiving Day.

THE FIRE. Last evening about ten o'clock an alarm of fire was sounded, and the department quickly responded, but as no one seemed to know where the fire was they were obliged to run about in various directions until they could locate it. This confusion demonstrates beyond a doubt that what we need is some kind of a fire-alarm, as a man's house might be totally destroyed before it was ascertained where the fire was. On this occasion the fire proved to be on Court street in a house owned by Charles L. Betts. The family were all away at the time and it is not known how the fire caught, but it evidently started in one of the bed rooms on the second floor. The fire burned through the roof in several places, and in order to extinguish the flames the house was flooded with water. The loss will be considerable and we are informed that the property was not insured.

THE CONCERT THIS EVENING. The vocal and instrumental concert announced by Mr John I Hodsdon Jr will be given this evening in Norombega Hall and it is hoped that our music loving public will show their appreciation of the fine talent of our own city by a large attendance. This occasion will be Mr Hodsdon's first appearance since his return from Europe, where he has spent several years in uninterrupted study and practice under the most eminent instructors and all who have heard his singing are enthusiastic in praise of his voice and execution. Miss Chapin and Miss Osgood will grace the occasion with a number of choice selections from their repertoire and to hear either of these young ladies sing is in itself a delight. The programme will embrace [illegible] prices in which Mr Andrews' eloquent violin will [illegible] Mr Davenport's presiding at the piano insures the skillful handling of that instrument. The programme has been arranged to please a variety of tastes while composed of the best class of music and we have reason to expect a very fine and enjoyable entertainment. BRAINS.

Continued.

I felt sure that in giving up my old associations and entering upon this new life I was giving him up also. If we had been engaged I had faith enough in him to be sure that he would have been changed by no change of fortune. But as it was I had not the shadow of a claim on him. I should drop out of his life. I will confess that I suffered keenly at the prospect. I would have clung to him if I could. For his sake I would have clung if I could to possession of old association. But the impossible fact was I could not. If I had been willing to starve genteelly I was not willing that my mother should, and there was no resource but to go to work. Just then I took up a Bible lying near me with some vague idea of finding in it comfort or direction, and the first words that caught my eyes fell upon this passage:

"And the Lord said unto Moses, Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward."

I was just in the state of mind to receive the word as a special direction—a sort of [illegible]. I took the passage as a command, and [illegible] that I had chosen the right path, and [illegible] on in it. So I tried to be brave—to [illegible] to think of Horace Weir—to suppress every repining thought, every long[illegible] for the old days of ease and luxury [illegible]

[illegible]

Miss Margery [illegible]

[illegible]

"Are you very busy, Miss Margery?"

"Not [illegible] to-day [illegible] my first [illegible]"

[illegible]

"Miss Sturgis' [illegible] the gesture of [illegible]"

[illegible]

The next morning Mrs. Sturgis came to [illegible]. After a consultation [illegible] her I made out my bill, charging per [illegible] two or three dollars on a dress more [illegible] I would have done.

Mrs. Sturgis ran over the items.

"You are a little higher in your rates than is customary here," she said, "but I suppose we must be willing to pay something for your taste. My daughters' dress was the loveliest in the room. Can you make them some more next week? They want some walking dresses and a dinner dress."

"No, next week I am sorry to say I am busy that will you came first [illegible] I might promise for the week after next."

I had [illegible] after that customers came fast enough, and a good many spoke of the dresses Aggie Sturgis [illegible] later had worn at the wedding. I was able in two months from that beginning to bring on my mother, and to take for her a third room—a small one which happened about that time to fall vacant—so that she could be as retired as she wished. I completed this arrangement early in the winter of 1861 and for two years between that time and the first appearance of little Brains in my establishment, I had been prospering beyond my hopes. But I was not happy. Success brought, indeed a certain kind of satisfaction but I missed sorely the care-free life of the old days, the liberty to follow my own tastes and ways, and I did miss Horace Weir. I had heard of him incidentally. He had come home from France and was now practicing his profession in New York. I would have given much to know whether he thought of me, it inquired after me, tried to trace me [illegible]. Vain enough it must have been, if he had. I had given no clue to my present residence to a single old friend. Every one of them to the best of my belief, had lost sight of me. I was wedded to a life very different from any of my early dreams. I had been successful, it is true, beyond my expectations. I was saving money. I could make mother comfortable. I had little to do with the laborious details of my business. My task was to invent graceful fashions—to suit colors to fair faces—to make charming toilets for girls living just such lives as I used to live once. God forgive me if sometimes I almost hated them—if now and then a mad, rebellious impulse seized me, and I cursed fate in my heart for forgetting that fate was but another name for Providence.

I had been in one of these murmuring moods when little Susan Mory interrupted my meditations with her fine, small voice. After she went away, I relapsed into it only partially, and roused myself with determination at last, and went to my mother to amuse her with an account of my droll little visitor. After all mother had much more to bear than I. She had not even the diversion of business. She must sit through the long, slow days, remembering the past and all its good gifts and false promises—setting by its contrast with the empty-handed present.—How much more she had lost too! What was the sentimental regret of a young girl over a love that had never been declared, to a wife's sorrow and longing for the household tenderness which had been hers for a quarter of a century? As I opened the door I reproached myself for all my repinings.

I was glad to perceive that she was really interested about "Brains." She wanted to see her on the morrow and began planning about garments we could give her to make over for herself and sister.
